Chancellor Continues Campus Visits at Bowling Green State University

CAMPUS CONVERSATIONS TOUR TAKES CHANCELLOR TO STUDENTS, FACULTY, UNIVERSITY LEADERSHIP TO DISCUSS HIGHER EDUCATION IN OHIO

COLUMBUS --- Chancellor Eric D. Fingerhut visits Bowling Green State University today and Thursday as he continues touring the state to seek input for the University System of Ohio.

The Chancellor meets with faculty, university leadership and student media today. Thursday's schedule includes breakfast with students and a campus tour.

"It is vital for our students and faculty to contribute to the discussion our state is having about higher education," Fingerhut said. "They can't always come to Columbus to share their ideas and concerns, so we must reach out to them."

Bowling Green is one of several stops on the Chancellor's Campus Conversations Tour. In recent weeks, he bunked at Shawnee State University, Central State University, and Miami University.

Bowling Green State University is one of the largest institutions of higher education in Ohio, with more than 20,000 students. Known for "outstanding examples of academic programs believed to lead to student success," the University has been cited repeatedly in U.S. News & World Report's America's Best Colleges for exceptional first-year programs and residential living/learning communities.
