First-to-Second-Year Retention

First-Time, Full-Time, Degree-Seeking Freshmen in Fall 2008 Persisting to Fall 2009

- First-to-second-year retention rates vary by type of institution. This reflects the varying levels of academic preparation of incoming students as well as the diverse missions of Ohio's campuses. At public institutions, 70% of first-time, full-time, degree-seeking freshmen returned to the same institution in their second year. An additional 8% transferred to another institution in Ohio, resulting in a statewide retention rate of 78%.
- Retention rates at Ohio's public universities vary depending on the selectivity of admissions. Open-admissions universities had a 78% statewide retention rate, compared to 91% at selective-admissions universities.
- The statewide retention rate at community colleges was 59%. University regional campuses had a higher retention rate of 72%, which is reflective of the transfer missions associated with these campuses.
- At Ohio's private, not-for-profit institutions 78% of first-time, full-time, degree-seeking freshmen returned to the same institution the following year.
